THE RIGHT WAY.

The educators of the world have come to the conclusion that progress is not made by teaching the wrong of things.

To illustrate—If a teacher would instruct a pupil how to spell, he would be considered very immature and sadly wanting in knowledge of the better way, if he were to start out telling the student and laying before the eyes of the student all of the wrong ways in which words might be spelled.

The best practical grammarians are not our most scholarly men and women but those, who, from their infancy, have heard the language properly spoken. The finely educated person, in the sense of academic learning, may know the theory of grammar fully and yet be very deficient in the application of the knowledge.

When an apprentice is given a place in an establishment, those in charge do not proceed to teach him all the wrong ways in which things may be done; on the contrary, they proceed without delay to teach him the right way, and keep on teaching him the right way.

Every time a wrong picture is given a child that child carries with it always that wrong picture and thus does the mind become filled and clogged with dead and useless lumber.

The value of this is no more apparent in the work of education in the school or shop or store than in other departments of life and yet we insist on or persist in drawing and hanging up false and wrong pictures in the false and wrong and absurd hope that those who see may from the wrong picture learn the right and true.

It is fair to presume that many of the evils, so-called, that perplex life and render it at times difficult result from fears created by idle stories told to children about things that do not exist, will not exist and never have existed.

The troubles that keep us awake nights are not those that are with us, but those that we fear will come and an overwhelming majority of those imaginary fears are due to false and wrong teaching in days when the mind was most receptive and the judgment most easily influenced.

Night would have no terrors for millions of children if they had never heard of ghosts and bogey men.

The thing we fear is the thing that overcomes us, as the old prophet said, "That which I most feared has come upon me." His experience is the experience of all.

Thousands of people, yes, hundreds of thousands of people live in fear of insanity, because they have been persuaded that in some past generation, some member of the family, from which they have descended, was in some way afflicted mentally. The belief in heredity, the transmission of tendency to mental weakness has ruined their lives.

And so it is in a thousand things in life, wrong methods are being taught and for it in health, strength, peace and happiness, we are paying a fearful price.

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

In the last issue of the Tonopah Miner, the leading democratic paper of this county, there is an announcement that George Brodigan, recorder and auditor of Esmeralda county, will be a candidate on the democratic ticket for the nomination of secretary of state. While we are not surprised at the action we would advise Mr. Brodigan to let well enough alone. Sheriff J. J. Owens of this county, who is without doubt, one of the widest known men in the state, will give the balance of the prospective candidates a run for their money for this office. We are not of the same political faith as Mr. Owens, but we predict that he will land the nomination with a safe majority.

TONOPAH TEAM AFTER SCALPS OF GOLDFIELDERS

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME WILL BE PLAYED HERE FRIDAY EVENING.

The game to be played Friday night at the Miners' Exchange hall between the Goldfield high school and the Tonopah Basketball club promises to be a splendid opportunity for the local fans to witness a contest that should prove to be one of excitement throughout. The result will, in a way, have a slight determination on the championship of southern Nevada, for the local aggregation have not met defeat this season. The team work of the Tonopah boys has shown that they are well schooled in the principles of the game, sufficiently so to prove dangerous antagonists to any team. The game will be called promptly at 8:30 o'clock sharp and will be followed by dancing, for which Tatro and Ish will furnish the music. The tickets have been placed on sale at 50 cents each.

THAT AMOUNT.

Lee Spencer, the colored porter at the Big Casino, who was found guilty Saturday night of assault and battery, for beating his wife, was yesterday sentenced to pay a fine of $360 by Judge Atkinson in the justice court. The prisoner was allowed several hours in which to raise the money, but at the expiration of the time he was unsuccessful, and was confined in the county jail where he will serve out the fine at the rate of $2 for each day of imprisonment. This makes his sentence of six months duration.

CONSERVATISM OF TONOPAH HAS AIDED THE ENTIRE STATE

This City is Known as the "Conservative Camp," States Ray Baker Who is Back From Trip Abroad.

"Tonopah is now known as the 'conservative camp' of Nevada, not only on Wall street of New York, but amongst the London brokers," said Ray Baker last evening. Mr. Baker returned only a few weeks ago from a ten months' sojourn through Europe and Africa. During his travels he visited England, Holland, Germany, Servia, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Bulgaria, Turkey, Italy, Sicily, Switzerland and France. He has had an abundance of time to study both the political and financial conditions of the countries enumerated above, but states that amongst the lot the idea of stability is not so prominent as it is in America. Referring to the conservatism of this camp Mr. Baker continued:

"With the finding of ore on the 1100-foot level of the Belmont, the eyes of the New Yorkers have again turned to Nevada and to Tonopah particularly. It has demonstrated that mining in this camp is yet in its infancy. This idea will be strengthened by the report of the late find of lode porphyry by the Montana in what may be termed as the arid region of this district. Tonopah stocks have received more attention in the last two months than they have in several years, and during my stay in New York I was informed by one of the prominent Wall street financiers that the boom had hardly started." Returning to his travels Mr. Baker stated that the work of rehabilitation of the city of Messina, Italy, had only begun during last October. At the time following the earthquake when an appeal was sent to the entire world for aid, the response made by the Americans, as individuals, and also as a nation, was the most prompt.

"Today," said Mr. Baker, "the only buildings that have been erected since the disaster has been by Americans. The streets have been given American names, and I can assure you that it is something to be proud of to be called an American in that stricken city."

During the height of the Paris flood Mr. Baker was in that city and describes the conditions among the poorer classes as most appalling. It was mainly in the tenement districts that the force of the flood was felt and consequently the poorer class were the heaviest sufferers.

"Like the earthquake in San Francisco," he said, "the result of the casualties will never be known. Yet the damage, which will reach a total of millions and millions, cannot be compared with the loss of San Francisco. It was mainly the outside districts of Paris that suffered the heaviest loss, while a number of the inner or central portions of the city escaped completely."

Mr. Baker will remain several weeks in southern Nevada looking after his mining interests and contemplates taking a trip to Death Valley to inspect his holdings in the Ubehebe district. He will also take in Rawhide, where he is heavily interested.

"Of all the spots I visited there was none that could be compared with Tonopah," he continued. "While it may not be the scenery of the desert country that appeals to a person when at a distance, there is something that sort of draws a person back. Now that I have completed Europe it will be Nevada for me from now on. And in this I think that I can safely voice the sentiments of every Nevadan who has left the state for any lengthy period."

LARGE CROWD WILL ATTEND THE MASQUE BALL

TONIGHT'S AFFAIR WILL BE OCCASION OF CONTINUAL ENJOYMENT.

Yea! Yea! Yea! There will be big doings at the Miners' Exchange hall tonight at the Eagles' masquerade ball when costumes of every kind and description will be in evidence. Verily, it will be an occasion of continual fun and enjoyment, and the person who fails to attend miss the opportunity of a lifetime. The committee was busy through yesterday and half of last night making the final arrangements for the affair. They have decided that only persons in costume will be allowed on the floor until the time of unmasking, and it behooves the tardy ones to immediately get busy and rig up some sort of a costume. All masks will be raised at the door and no objectionable characters will be permitted within the hall. The awarding of the prizes is bound to create considerable merriment, for there are several awards that will not require much masking. The tickets, which have been placed on sale at $1.50 each, are reported to have been sold so fast that in half the business houses the supply has been exhausted.
